

To whom it may concern,

Declaration

Hereby we confirm that the following species of mushrooms are processed to food products and food supplements according to the applying food regulations (LfGB/NEMV).

Agaricus – powder and extract
Auricularia – powder and extract
Champignon – powder and extract
Coprinus – powder and extract
Cordyceps – powder and extract
Coriolus – powder and extract
Hericium – powder and extract
Grifola frondosa – powder and extract
Pleurotus – powder and extract
Polyporus – powder and extract
Ganoderma lucidum – powder and extract
Lentinula edodes – powder and extract

All these products are non-toxic, non-addictive medicinal mushrooms of chemical origin, gmo-free and free of irradiation.

There is no doubt that mushrooms are specified as food.

These mushrooms are cultivated; they do not belong to endangered species!

The mushrooms are commercialised in Germany as food products according to the definition of VO/EG 178/2002 Art.2 and §2 LFGB as well as in accordance with the common opinion that non-toxic mushrooms are edible.

All kinds of mushroom powder and extract comply with the general and special assessment criteria for edible mushrooms according to the "regulations for mushrooms and mushroom products" (LML). Since they are cultivated mushrooms the fact that they are not listed in the LML for mushrooms can be disregarded.

The mushroom products are regularly tested (DNA and banned additives) and only commercialised when the analysis is consistent with all regulations. The results of analyses comply with the finished products.
